DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 11/ 24/ 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. References are evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than their specific disclosure [see In re Bozek, 163 USPQ 545 (CCPA 1969)]. In this case, the reference shows An online centralized financial products exchange system. The invention is a system, method and computer program product that creates a "marketplace" for end-to-end financial products life cycle transactions. More particularly, the invention provides a centralized exchange system for the trading of loans. The system includes a plurality of Web servers for receiving and providing loan information from and to subscribers on several Web clients and a database server for searching the pre-set rules to match potential buyers with sellers. The system also includes a database for storing information relating to negotiations (i.e., bidding) for the sale of loans and for storing pre-set rules for pre-registered buyers and sellers. The system further includes a database and server for storing risk/return information that is made available to subscribers for analysis. In regards to the applicant's assertions that the primary reference fails to disclose fulfillment of commitment contracts according to underwriting criteria with the specified number of loan products, it is respectfully submitted that references, in determining obviousness are not read in isolation but for what they fairly teach in combination with prior art as a whole. It is also submitted that references are evaluated by what they suggest. Levine suggests loan pooling which is the buying and selling of groups of loans (see column 7, line 63 to column 8, line 26). It is submitted that loans are themselves commitment contracts inasmuch as they are legal obligations between borrowers and sellers. It is known in the art that there are several criteria that may be used in which to underwrite a loan or a set of loans (see column 9, lines 10-52). Thus the rejections are maintained below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-6, 36-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over in view of Levine (US 6,233,566) in view of In re Venner, 262 F. 2d 91, 120 USPQ 193, 194 (CCPA 1958). The amendments have been considered in the remarks above.

Levine discloses, as in claims, a method for managing loan products on a server (see Levine Abstract, col. 5, lines 55-60),

--receiving by a processor a commitment contract (bid), the commitment contract specifying a number of loan products (loan pool) to be fulfilled to satisfy said commitment contract (see col. 23, line 53 to col. 24, line 7).

Art Unit: 3696

--managing by said processor one or more underwriting criteria for said loan products, wherein one of said loan products has a corresponding group of underwriting criteria (see Levine, col. 3, lines 16-28; and col. 20, lines 65 to col.21, line 3).

--wherein the step of managing one or more underwriting criteria comprises the steps of: receiving said underwriting criteria from one or more financial institutions (see Levine, col. 3, lines 16-28); storing said underwriting criteria and providing to a first financial institution a group of underwriting criteria corresponding to one of said loan products (see Levine, col. 3, lines 16-28), as in claims 2, 36

--wherein the step of managing one or more underwriting criteria comprises the steps of: assigning a fulfillment grade to a funded loan; and maintaining a record of funded loans for said loan products (see rejections above), as in claim 3, 3-39

-- wherein said fulfillment grade is based on a reliability of data obtained during a fulfillment process (see rejection above), as in claim 4, 40-43

--has nonfunctional descriptive material that is not considered patentable (see rejection above), as in claim 5

--has nonfunctional descriptive material that is not considered patentable (see rejection above), as in claim 6,

--receiving a request from a first financial institution to transfer to a second financial institution access rights (notification) to said data for one of said one or more loans (see col. 21, line 58 to col. 22, line 37); and

Art Unit: 3696

--transferring said access rights (allowing access) to said second financial institution (see col. 21, line 58 to col. 22, line 37);

--settling one or more loans by providing data for one or more registered financial institutions, as in claim 8,

---receiving a request from one of said one or more registered financial institutions to review one or more loans (see col. 21, line 58 to col. 22, line 37),

--providing and registered financial institution with a predetermined time in which to reject a sale price of said one loan (see col. 21, line 58 to col. 22, line 37),

--automatically settling said loan at said sale price when said registered financial institution accepts, and alternatively fails to reject said sale price Of said one loan before said predetermined time expires,

--instructing said registered financial institution to send payment to a settlement financial institution (see col. 21, line 58 to col. 22, line 37), as in claim 9,

--wherein said sale price is a settled price between financial institutions (see col. 21, line 58 to col. 22, line 37), as in claim 10,

Levine discloses an underwriting processor (Levine column 3, lines 7+) but does not disclose automatically managing by the processor of one or more underwriting criteria and automatically executing the underwriting criteria. However, in In re Venner

The courts held, that broadly providing an automatic or mechanic means to replace a manual activity, as is here, which accomplished the same result is not sufficient to distinguish over the prior art [see MPEP 2144.04]. Thus to automatically managing the processor one or more underwriting criteria and automatically executing actions would be what one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention would expect, having no unexpected results to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
